THE CHAMPION SMITH FAMILY

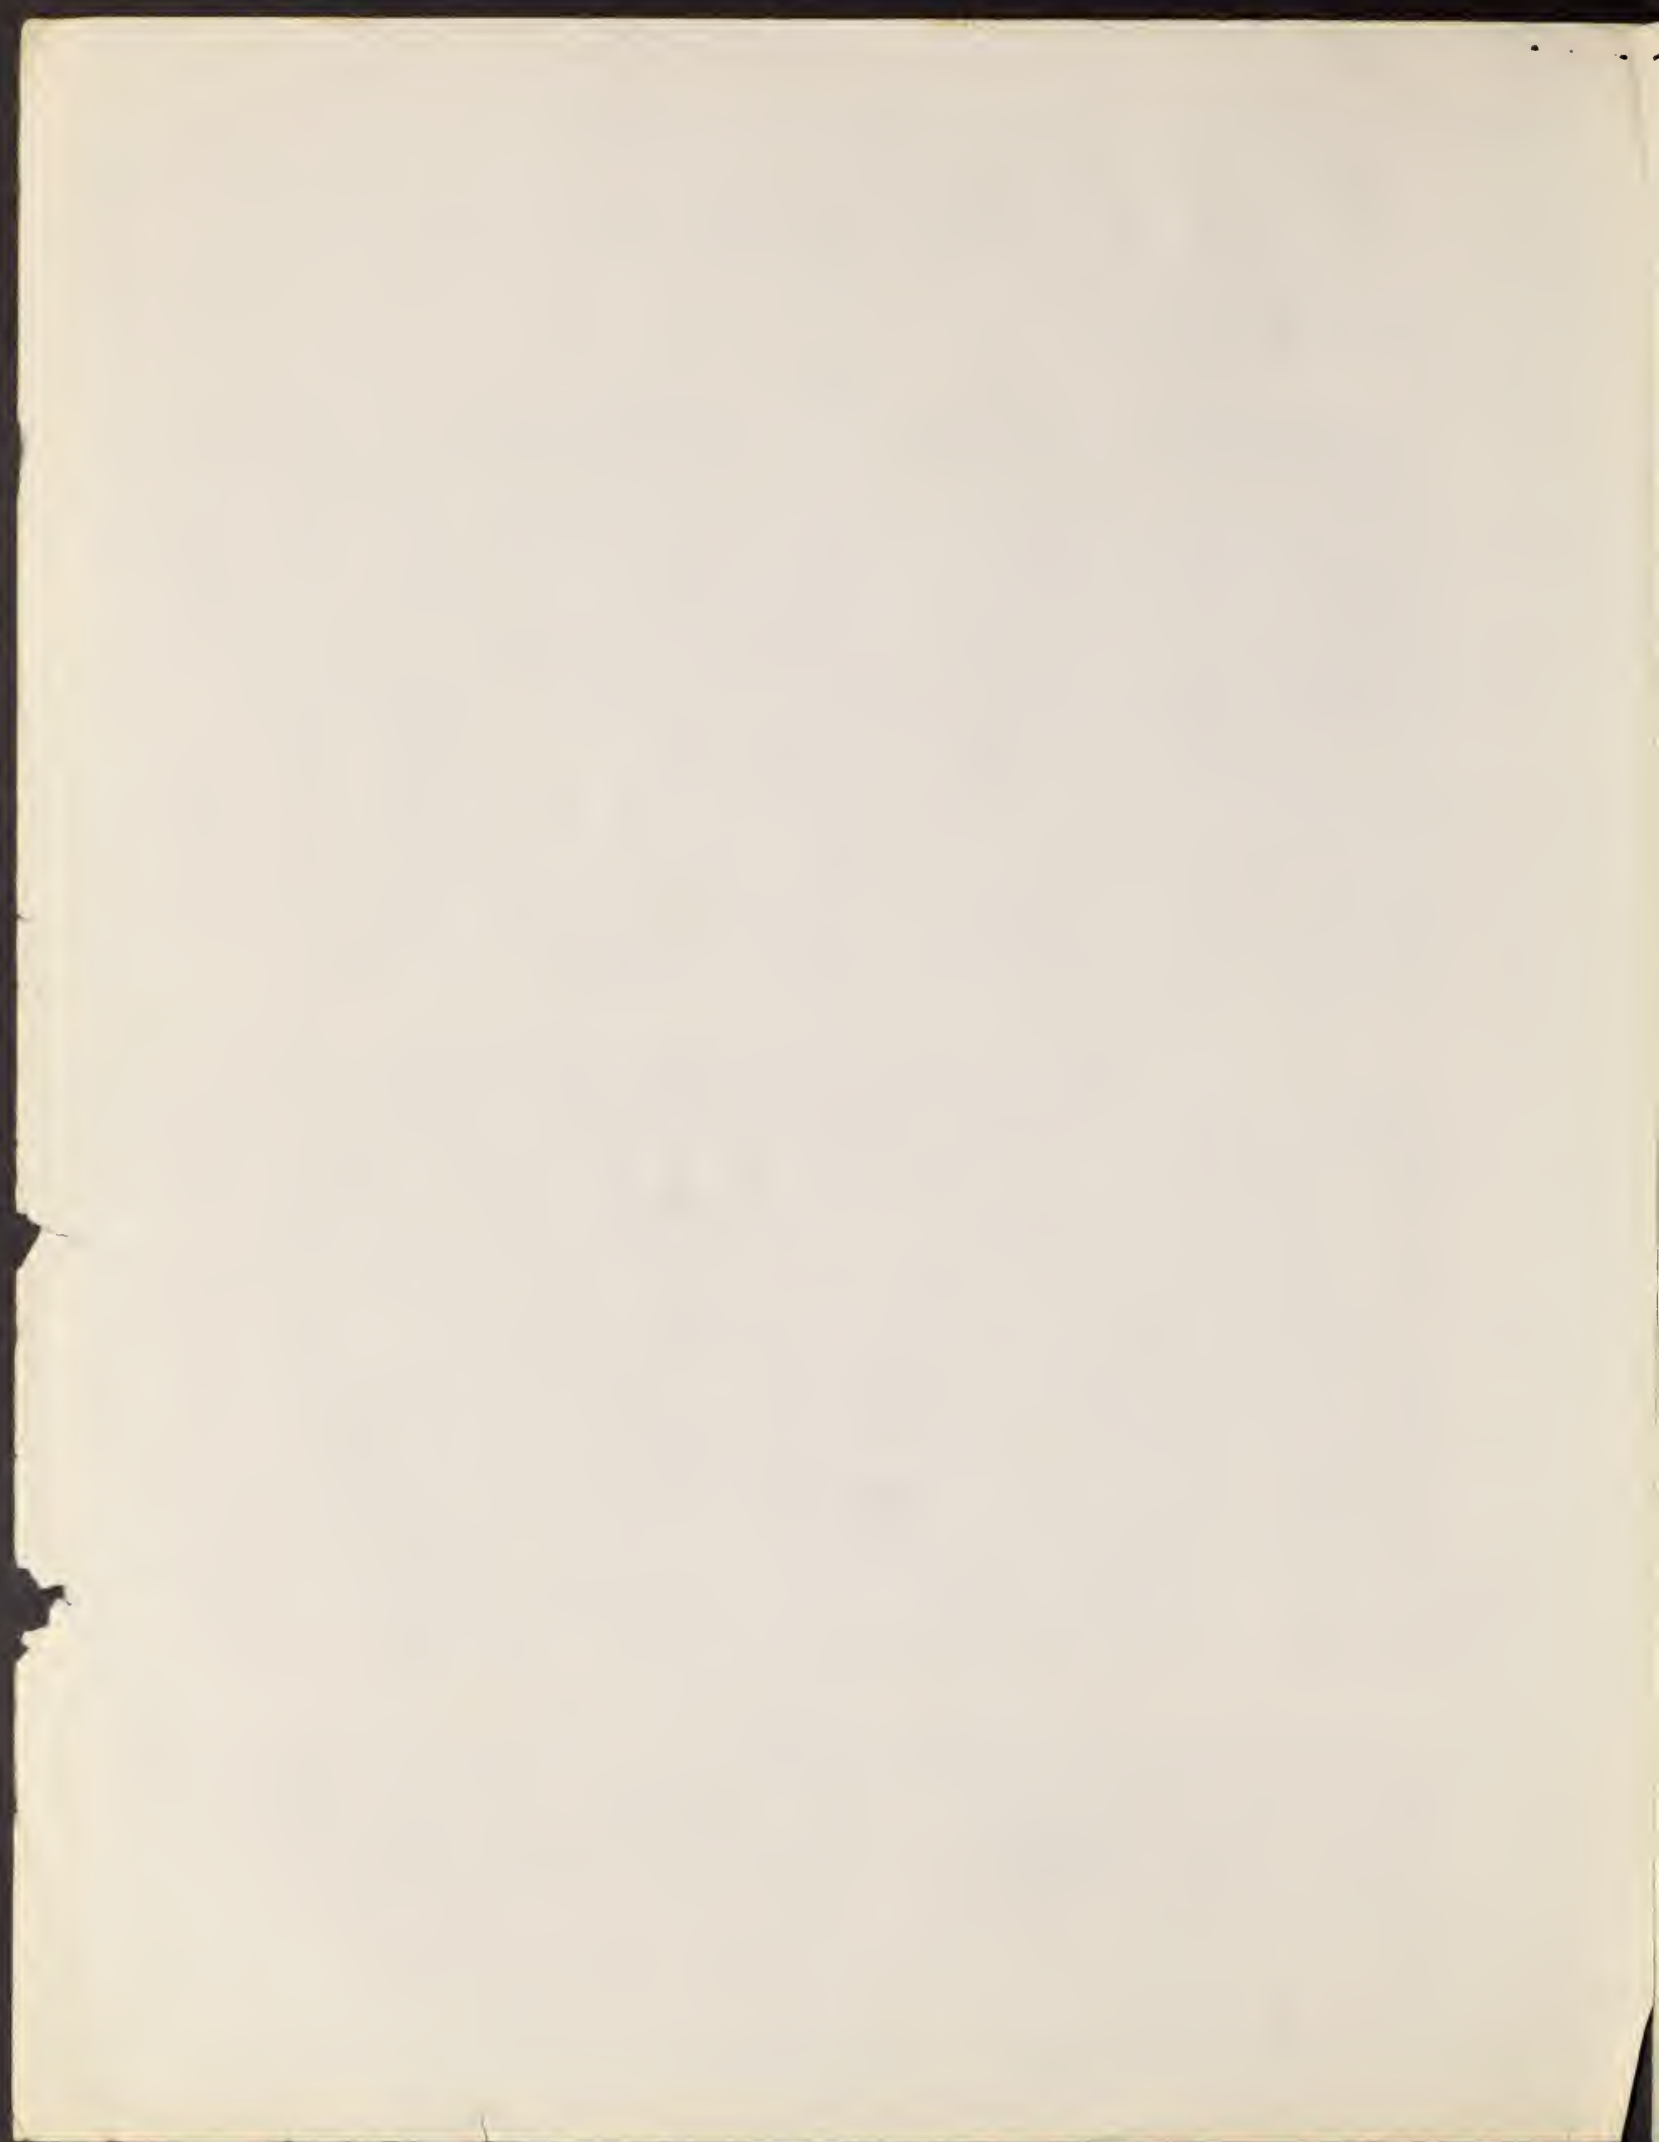

INTERESTING HISTORICAL ITEMS

Darius Champion Smith

I, Darius Champion Smith, was born in Pittstown, State of New York, on the 9th day of September in the year of our Lord 1794 and resided at that place until I was five years of age. My parents moved to a place called Warren, stayed there one year and from thence moved to the German State two miles above the Little Falls on the Mohawk River; lived at that place one year and six months and from thence started for Canada in a small Schenectady boat up the Mohawk River, stopping one day at an uncle's, whose name was Rasel Nickenson, living about two miles from Utica, which city at that time contained only three houses built with logs. From Utica we went to Wood Creek near a place called Fort Staunix. Continuing our way down Wood Creek into Rideau Lake with our boat and three families of us in company, we slept on the ground at night by a large fire built of logs, it being then late in the fall and flakes of snow occasionally falling. With our boat we steered along until we arrived at Oswego and after remaining in that place for one week, a poor vessel of small dimensions was hired to convey us to Kingston on board of which we all shipped and set sail with a fair wind for that part, but the wind raised and increased to that degree that the vessel sprang a leak and after much exertion and being very nearly lost we ran her under Colton Island near Granelly Point, which place then contained only two log houses and one shanty, and on the Island four soldiers were quartered in charge of a small fort.

We were all landed on the American shore to encounter the hardships of a dreary cold winter where our sufferings were greater than imagination can paint. We moved into a shanty formerly built and occupied by a man by the name of Conlan, who left it and came to Canada. As there was no road nor ice to cross the river that winter and no provisions to be purchased at that place we were nearly reduced to starvation, stunted from meal to meal and from day to day by our dear mother, some meals living on stewed pumpkins, some on turnips and at other times boiled corn. The way in which we procured the corn was by my dear brother and myself taking down a stock of cornstalks and overhauling it stalk by stalk, gleaning out the few grains which had been overlooked by the man Conlan when he gathered it; the few turnips we obtained by scraping the snow from around the turnips where said Conlan had omitted to gather them, but they were small and scarce. After they were all exhausted I was sent down the shore of the river a distance of fourteen miles to purchase some flour. The snow being deep it took me two days to perform the journey. I bought twenty-four pounds, paid six pence per pound for it, and carried it home on my back which, considering my youth, you may be sure was no easy task, but my suffering was greater by seeing a flock of wild geese collected in an opening of the river, near Colton Island, and taking them for eagles which gave me great alarm, as I had heard they often carried off bad children.

The reason I had for supposing myself bad was the following: In the morning before I started for home with the flour, the son of the man Bacon and I were sent to the sugar bush to put fire under the kettles which we did to such an extent that the kettles became heated above the syrup so that when it boiled up to the heated kettles, they were broken into pieces. Our haste was in order that I might get a piece of sugar to take home with me. Seeing the kettles broken we left the bush for the house as fast as possible, telling the father of the boy that we had left a good fire under them, but saying nothing about what had happened to them. This circumstance put me in fear all day and when I saw the large flock of geese, which I supposed were eagles flying after me, and not caring to leave the shore of the river out of my sight from a dread of getting lost in the woods, as in all that distance not a cleared field or a house was to be seen, and I did not know better until I arrived home to a small shanty. On my arrival there I told my parents what had happened to the sugar kettles and what I had seen, and the difficulties I encountered getting through the woods. An old hunter by the name of Shelding happened to be in, and laughing at my story, said he would let me see they were not eagles and off he went about dark and returned with three wild geese, which, added to our store, lasted until the navigation was clear. Twice that winter we got to the Island, and the soldiers divided a portion of their provisions to keep us from starvation. When the ice was out sufficient for us to venture we hired one of the small ferry boats and steered from the Canadian shore, stopping one night on Long now called Wolfe Island. We stopped near the upper end of it where there were some French Canadians lumbering, who seeing our depressed state for want of food, put out some dishes of pea soup, called us to eat, and it was the best and sweetest meal I ever enjoyed in the course of my life. At that time there were only three families residing on that Island. The names of two of them were Cone and Hitchcock, one on one side of it and one on the other. The next morning we started our rowing boat and made Collins Bay, seven miles above Kingston, the day being fine and the weather calm.

Letter from Charles E. Grasse

The Smiths and the Champions were French Protestants - "Huguenots". About 1640 they came to America to save their lives - settled in or about Elmira, New York.

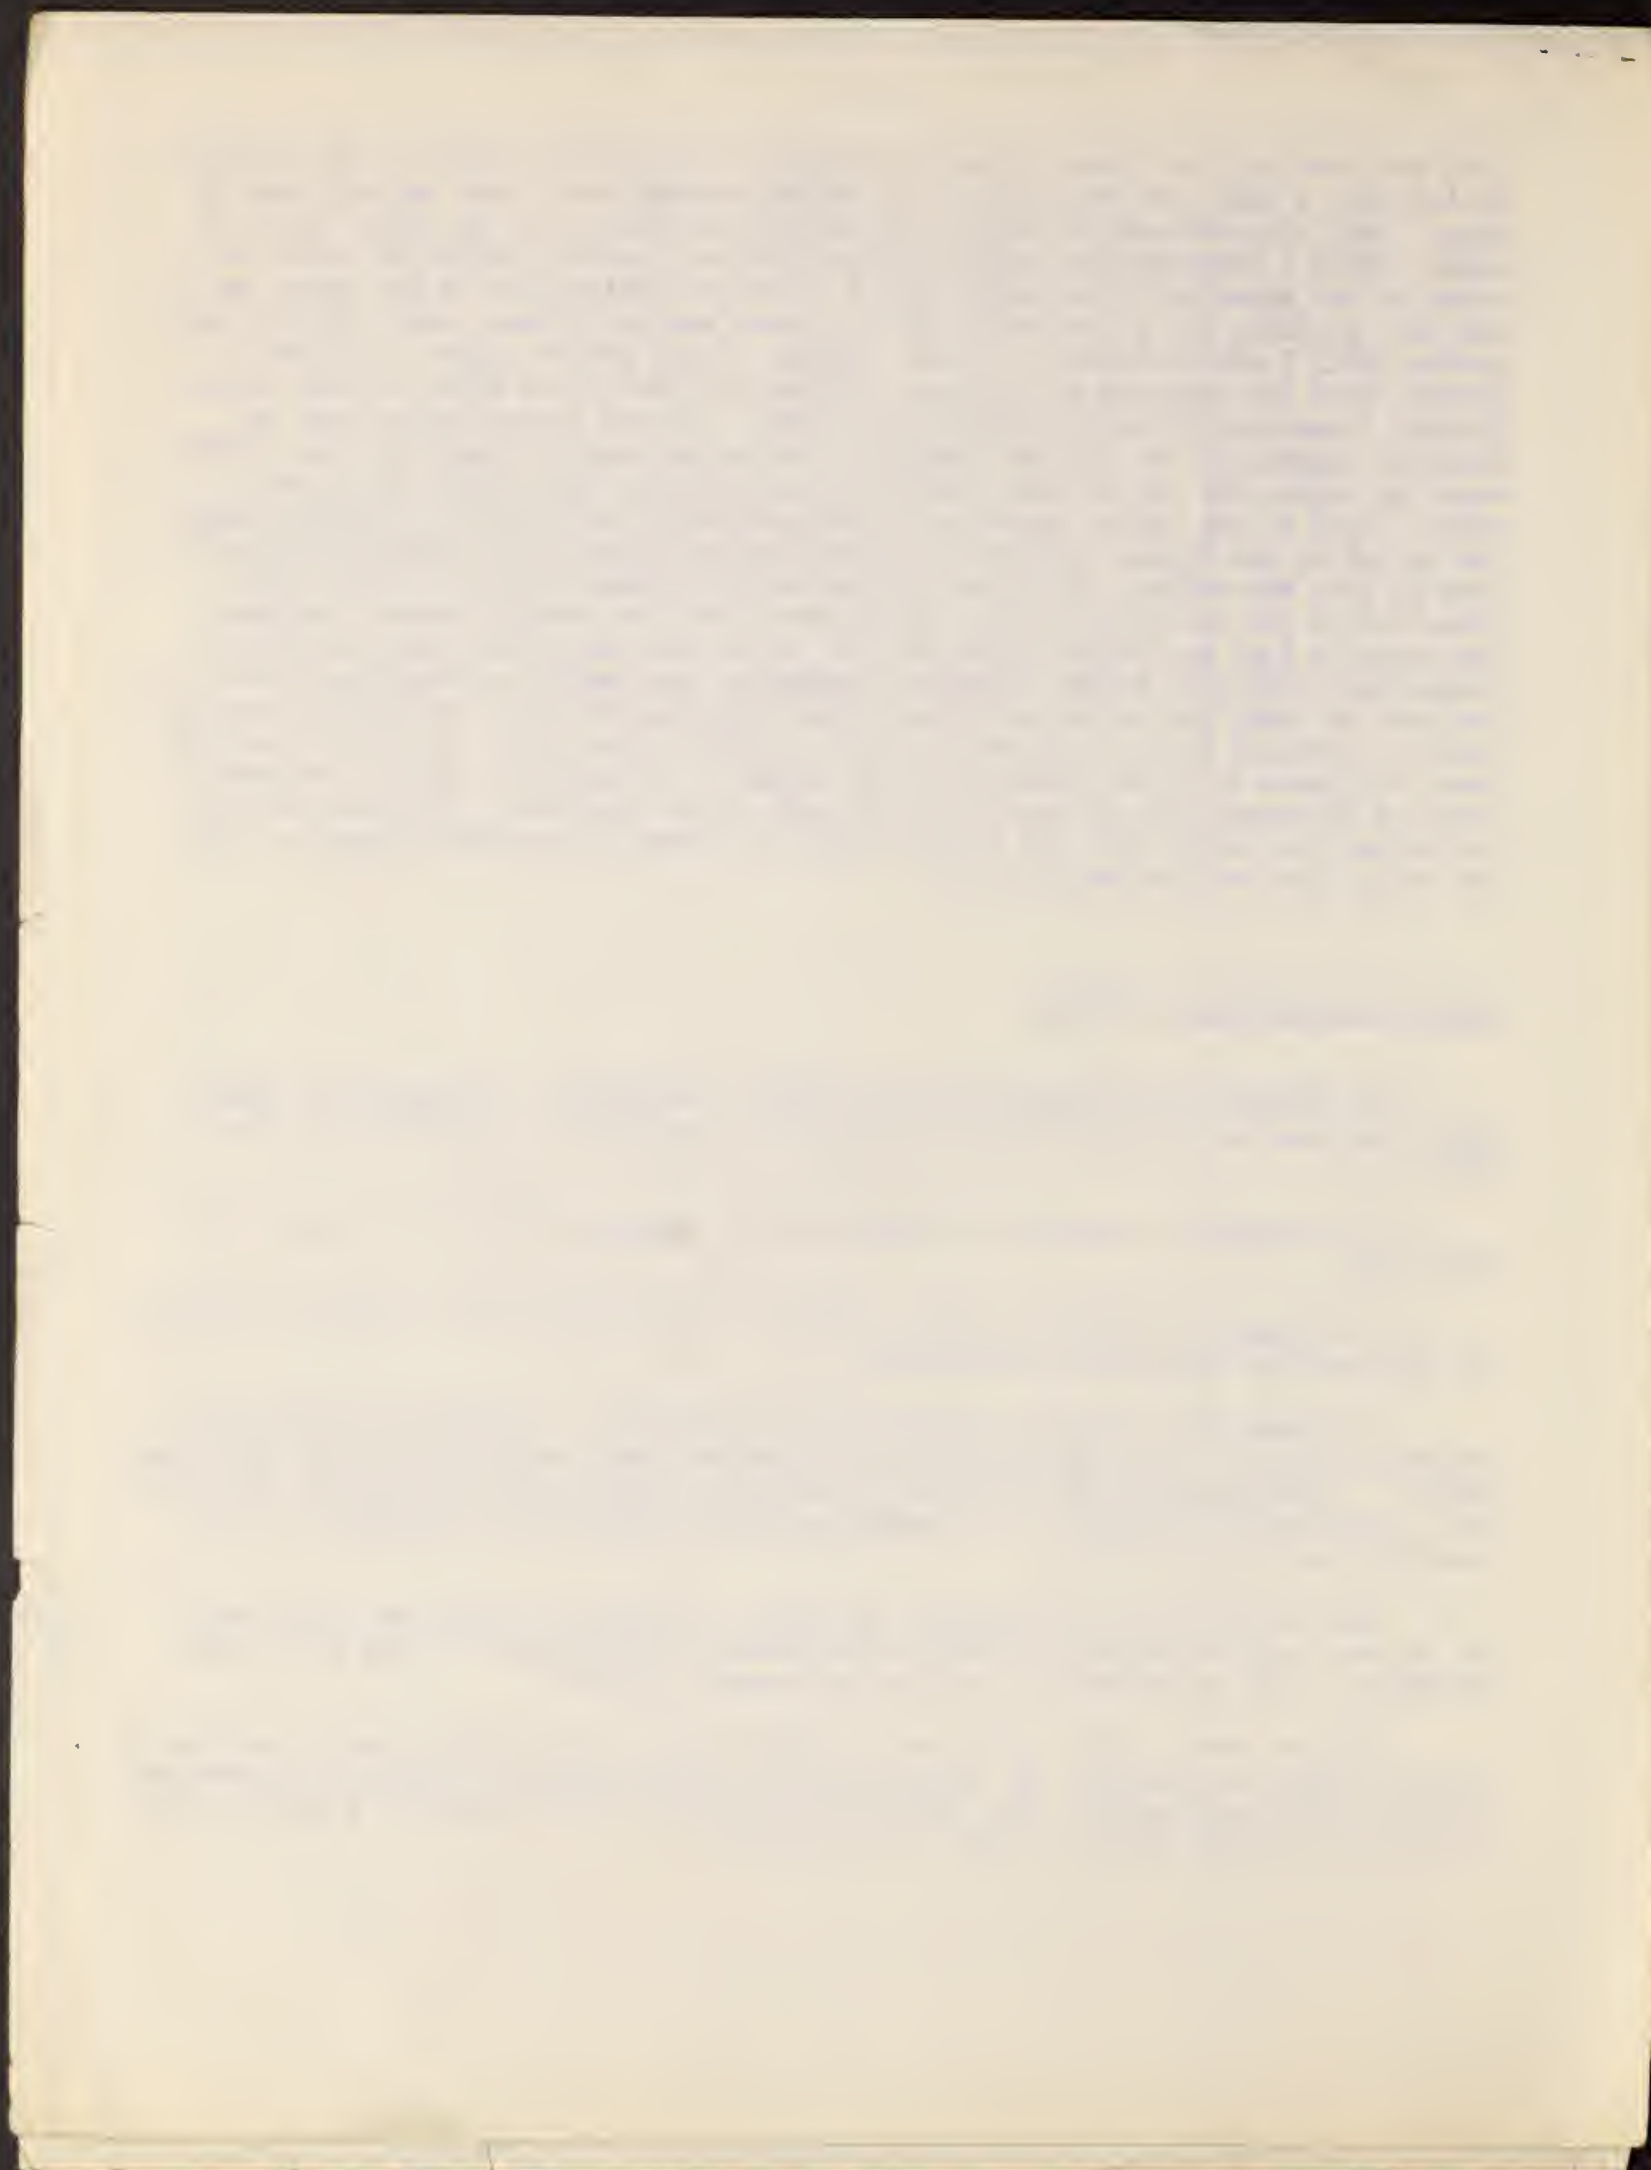

The Champions invented the Farming Mill to separate (blow) the chaff from the grain.

Great-great-grandfather Smith's name as a boy was "D'rys". "D'rys" is French for king and he was known as King Smith.

President James Madison declared war on Britain. A company of soldiers was raised in Elmira. D'rys enlisted and they marched into Canada to make the Canadians "free". Their supplies got lost and the boys were hungry, and they killed Crysler's bull (mentioned in history). The Canadians didn't like that so they shot at the invaders and D'rys took off.

The British were building lots of ships in Kingston, so the boy got a job. He had been apprenticed to a cabinet-maker when he was 12 years of age so he made furniture - but on the British pay roll he became "Darius".

The war over, Darius Smith went to Elmira with a belt full of gold, married a Champion girl and came back to Kingston with a wagon, a team of horses, a feather bed and his wife's hope chest! Also he told his father-in-law to get him a pension for fighting in Jimmie Madison's army and - he got it!

In Upper Canada he got him a farm, put his wife on it, and went to Quebec to see the Governor. Lighthouses had to be built so the ships could sail at night. He got a job building and maintaining them - and to be sure "he" was the "Smith", his papers read Darius "King" Smith.

He had a son whom he called Darius Champion and our great-grandfather also a son called Champion Smith who died in Oswego, N.Y., 85 to 90 years ago.

The British gave pensions to Canadians who defended their homes so Darius "King" got one for his services at Kingston with the ships. So he drew pensions from both sides in the same war.

Darius Smith Sr. was always called "King" by the British soldiers.

Some folks thought these Elmira people queer - no buttons on their clothes and speaking a flat Dutch, but they had plenty of ability. Darius Champion Smith said he could build a house and everything in it except the kitchen stove - at that time all the nails were made by hand in the blacksmith shop!

NOTE: The "Champion Farming Mill" is still being made and used to this day.

SMITH of Ernesttown

THE SMITH FAMILY OF ERNESTTOWN.

Darius SMITH, who was born in New York State in 1759-60, married Mary (Polly) whose surname is said to have been Champion. It is said that she was aged 100 years at death. Darius died in Ernesttown 31 Dec., 1844, as recorded in John C. Clark's Diary. This family was living in Elmira in 1794, in Warren in 1795, and at, or near, Little Falls in 1797. In 1799 they started on the slow journey to Canada by way of Utica, Oneida Lake, Oswego and Lake Ontario. The winter was spent near Cape Vincent, and in the following summer they settled near Collins Bay, five miles west of Kingston. Some time later they removed westward to Ernesttown.

Their known children were:

1. Darius Champion (see below).
2. Isaac.
3. An unnamed son.
4. An unnamed son.

Darius Champion SMITH (see above) was born at Elmira, N. Y., 9 Sept., 1794. He was apprenticed to a cabinet-maker when he was twelve years of age. In 1812 or 1813, he joined the American Army in Elmira. He evidently was with the Army which descended the St. Lawrence River in 1813 with the intention of capturing Montreal. He participated in the engagement at Oryador's Farm when the Americans were defeated. It would appear that Darius deserted, for he next appeared in Kingston where he was employed in the Naval Shipyards there. As a result, he drew pensions from both sides.

After the war he returned to Elmira and married, following which he returned to Canada. One branch of the family says she was a Miss Champion, which seems to be an error. Another branch calls her Margaret Joan Loonan, who was 102 years of age at death.

He built and operated the first lighthouses on Lake Ontario, and was called Superintendent of Lighthouses.

His children, not in order of birth, were:

1. Darius, born about 1820; married, first, -----; second, Margaret Allen.
2. Sarah, married Jacob Horning.
3. Mary, married ----- Hartman.
4. Ann, married ----- Benjamin.
5. Elizabeth (Betsy), married ----- Benjamin.
6. Lavina (see below).
7. William Henry, born 5 July, 1830; died 18 Aug., 1862, and lies buried in Cataract Methodist Church Cemetery.
8. Zilpha, married Lawrence Hartman.
9. Joseph R., married, first, Almira Moran, second, Eunice Moran.
- 10-12. Two or three children who died young.

Lavina, born in 1823, married Joshua Booth.

Kingston, Ontario

Dear Dr. Burleigh,

Mr. Clarence Hogeboom gave me your name to write to you and ask if you could give me some suggestions about a genealogical problem in or around Kingston. I have enclosed family group sheets to clarify the problem for you.

Robert Baldwin Smith was brought to Michigan in 1854 with his maternal grandparents, Robert and Sarah (Sophie) Smith Diamond. Family tradition says that he had a brother Darius who died just before R. B. was born and, also, his father, Darius, died about Nov. 1847. R. B.'s mother, Mary Ann Diamond remarried to Thomas Carr whose mother was a Diamond. I think she was a cousin to both of her husbands.

I found the bible of Darius Smith 1762 near Saginaw and was allowed to copy the records from it but the ink was so faded I couldn't read all of his children's names.

Mrs. Bruce Elliott did a considerable amount of research for me in the Archives in ~~Quebec~~ Ottawa but couldn't find proof of the father of R. B. Smith. I have copies of the wills of Darius 1762 and Darius Champion Smith 1794 but there is no mention of R. B. Smith in them. On family group 2, There is a William Charles Roblin Smith who was mentioned in the will of D. C. Smith, son of deceased William 1828.

I have checked land records, wills, church archives, Ottawa Archives. I am UEL and have had queries in the Gazette but I still do not have proof of his parentage.

Family group 3- this Darius Champion Smith could be the man I want. He has a lapse in time between his first and next set of children. Could he married and divorced Mary Ann Diamond?

The land records take me from Frontenac Co. to L&E Co., and then to Hastings Co., where Darius Smith petitioned for the land of Daniel Carr, father of Thomas Carr.

I am positive this is the Smith family who is the father to ?Robert Baldwin Smith but I tried to find proof for over 5 years.

Can you give me suggestions? Are the old newspapers on microfilm somewhere? Would they go back to 1823, 1843 and 1847?

Mrs. Florence(Anthony) Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Smith of Kingston all descend from this family but they do not have as much information as I do about them. Also, Mr. William A. Smith of Odessa. I was in Kingston last fall but the sexton of the Cataragui Cemetary was not in town so I was unable to check their early records. Do you know if they are complete? Are the early burial recorded?

Please help me if it is at all possible. I would appreciate any help.

The Smith family went to Hingham, Mass. in 1635, then to New York after American Revolution, Darius Smith went to Canada in 1805 and defended Canada in War of 1812.

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Yvonne S. Domson

our ancestors

As we review our records of the lives of our ancestors, we come to realize the trials and tribulations that ruled their lives, particularly if they were involved in the American Revolution. If, at that time, a man remained loyal to British Institutions and refused to sign a document, he found himself in trouble. He likely was imprisoned, while his property, both real and personal, was confiscated, his wife and children confined to an old fort, along with their kind. Later, if the husband joined the British army, his family was later transferred to British authorities. Then after several years of homeless living, the family was settled on land granted to them. Here, subsisted by authorities, they suffered miserably while they awaited a home for the primeval forest.

But even after the war was over and peace signed, there were many families who, encouraged by offers of land under British Institutions, ~~also~~ set out across the land to new homes. We know little about the trials of such a journey. But now and again, those who were involved in the transfer have given us some indications of the troubles involved in the journey. One such a family was that of Darius Smith.

Darius Smith, said to be son of a Joseph Smith, was born in 1759-60, in Pittstown, New York State. The first of the family came to Hingham Mass in 1635, with a later generation removing to Pittstown after the termination of the Revolution. Darius, who had married about 1790, Mary whose surname is believed to have been Champions.

Their son, born 9th Sept 1794, was named Darius Champions Smith. About 1799 the Smith family planned to take advantage of Lieut-Governor Simcoe's Proclamations which offered a 200 acre ~~lot~~ of land in Ontario Co any sober, hard working man at a minimal clerical cost. It was then that Darius Smith and family set out for the Mohawk River Valley, on their way to Ontario

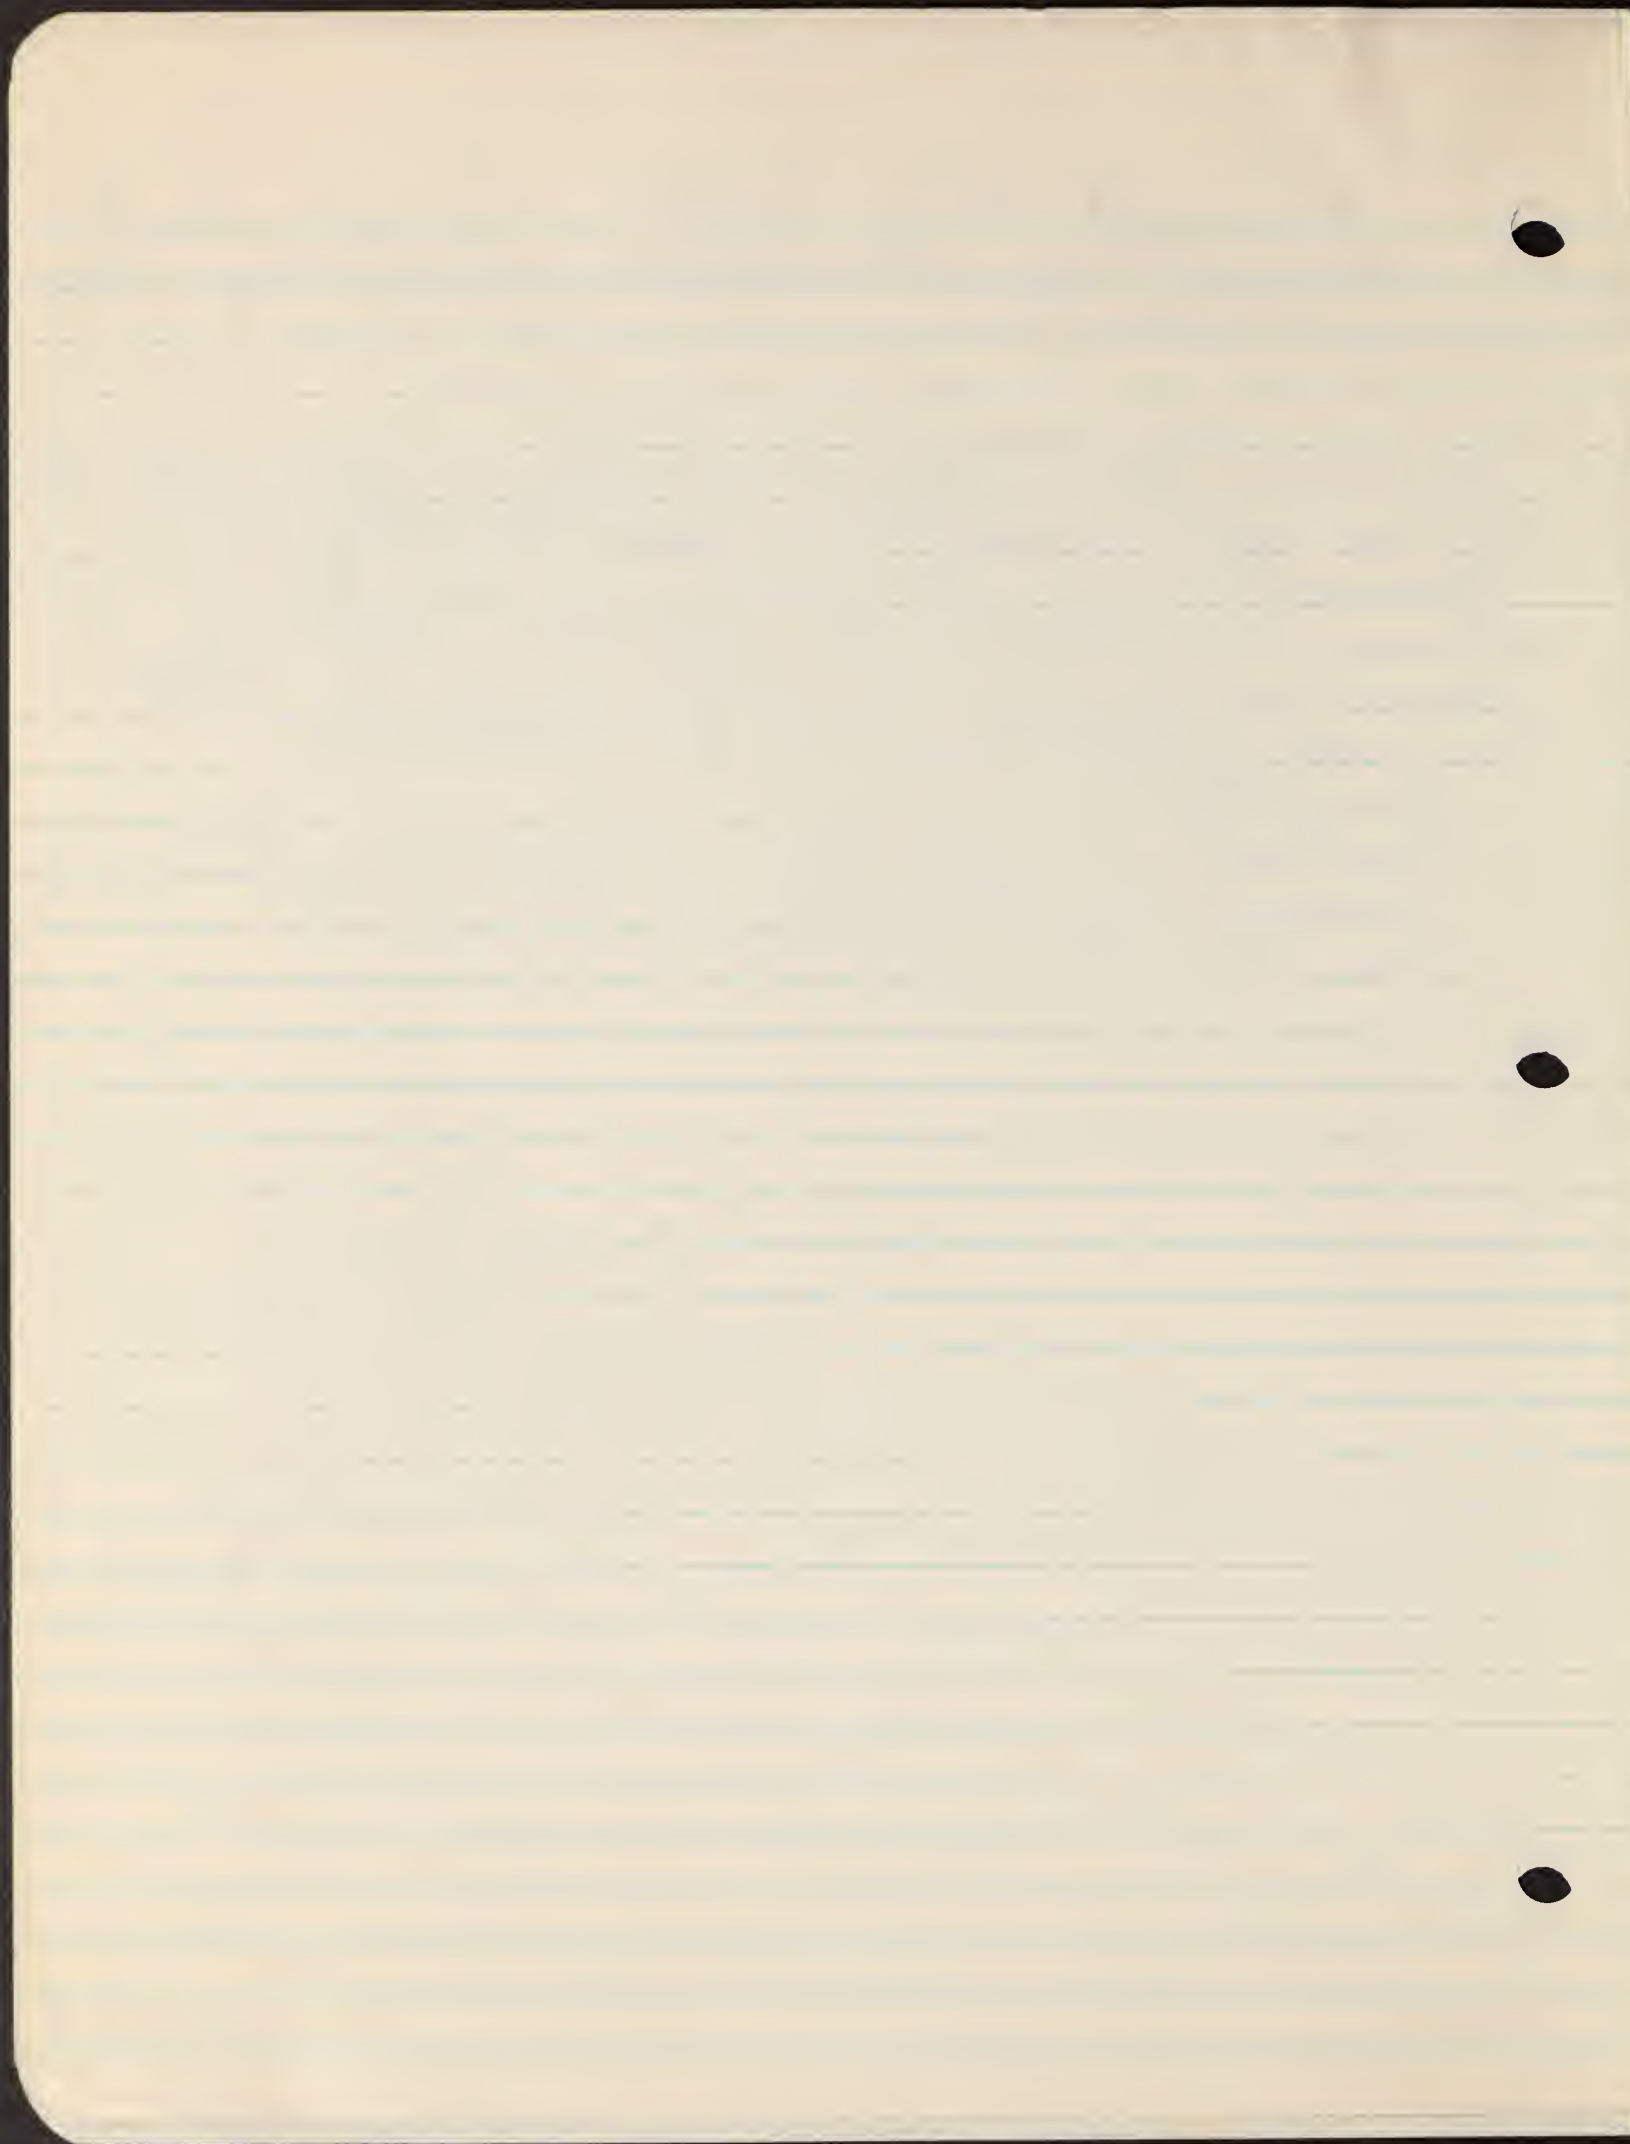

And to make it more realistic, I am adding here the story of the trip as told by their small son Darius Chapman Smith. Here it is:

An added characteristic of the Smith family was long life. Several grand daughters reached the nineties while others attained centuries! This feature was the gift of the wife of Darius who reached 100 yrs & also from the Allen family whose daughter became wife of Darius Chapman Smith, the builder of lighthouses in the Lake Ontario area.

Then children

Ann Amelia wife of John Ferguson was still living at 102 yrs 9 mos Leonora, wife of T. V. Vanhook was alive at 106 years and others living just short of the century

Once the Revolutionary War had been terminated and settlement of the thousands of refugees got under way, what was later to be known as Upper Canada was considered The Promised Land. But the matter of reaching this land was another matter. No matter what approach was attempted, it was an unhappy struggle to reach it - to say the least!

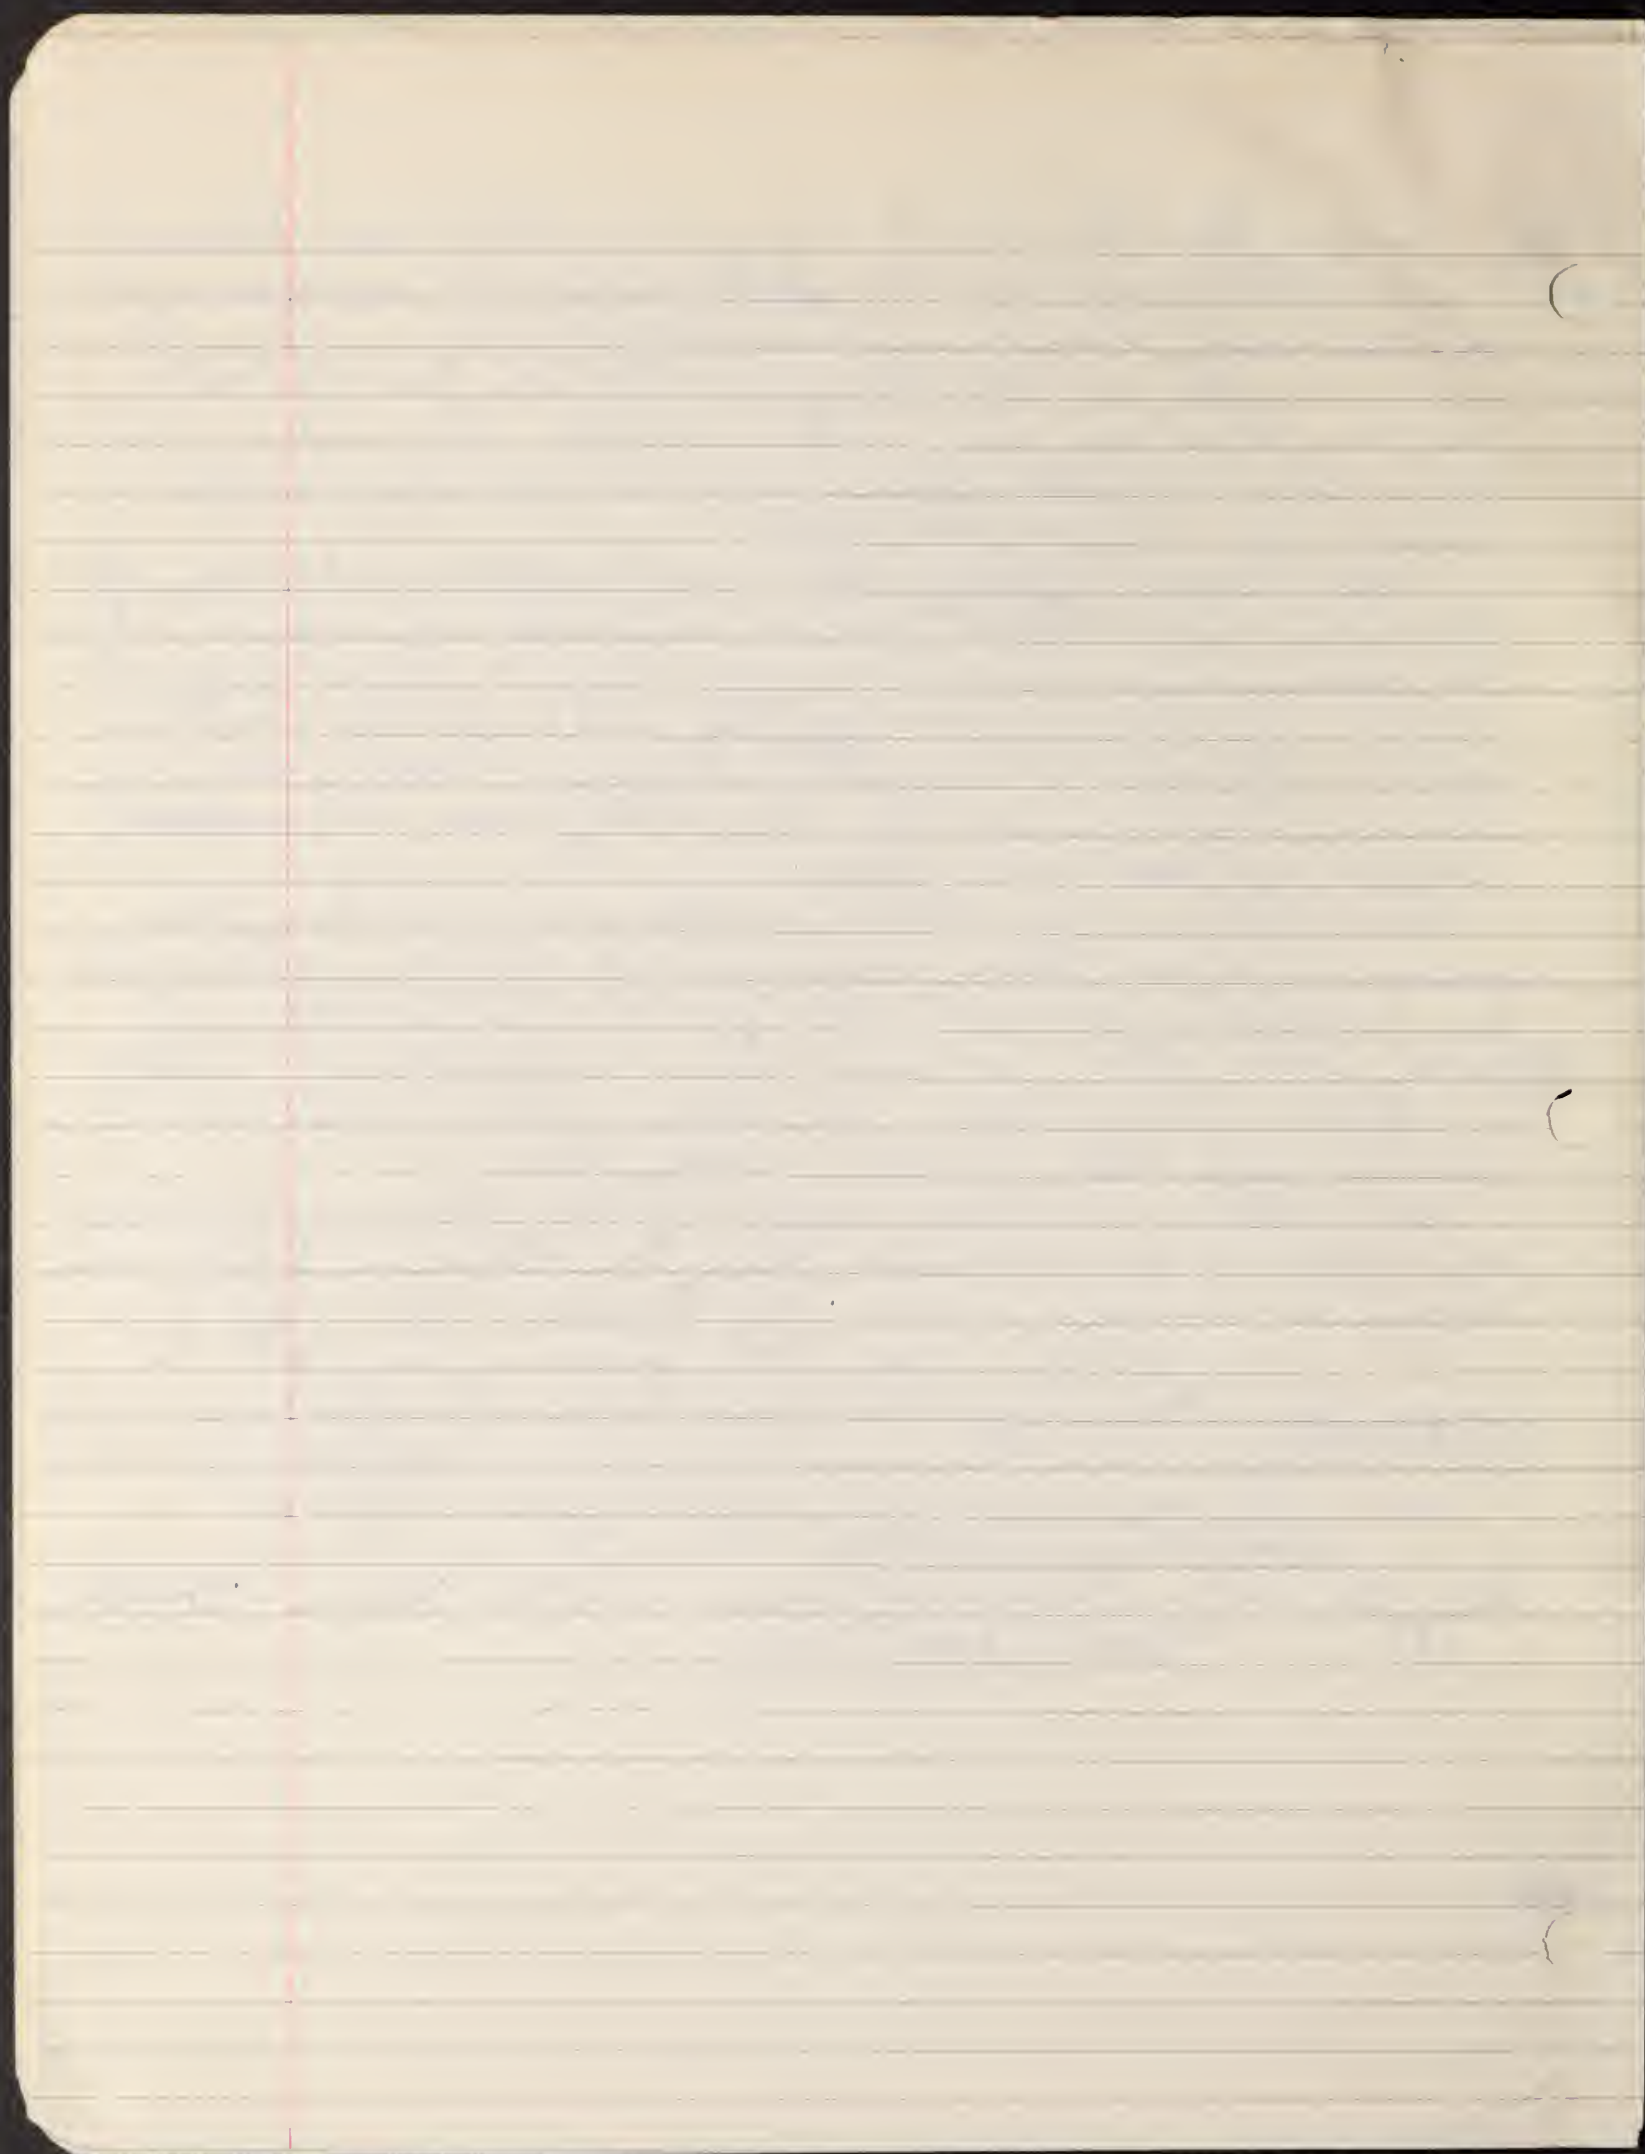

From Lower Canada the route followed the Upper St. Lawrence river. Boats ^{rafts} had to be towed up rapids while the passengers made long portages to areas of quieter water. So much depended on the wind and the weather and in all cases it meant ^{about} 12 ~~long~~ unhappy days of travel, sleeping under the shade of trees and ~~cooking~~ preparing food over a fire.

But there were other methods of reaching the promised land. Those who arrived by way of Niagara had to follow Indian trails from the Susquehanna Valley, while others crossed from the Mohawk Valley, a matter of 200 miles. The story of St. Geo. Malmgren's journey from Stone Arabia to Niagara.

Then there was the rugged, stormy journey of those who followed the Mohawk Valley to Oneida Lake and thence to Oswego, eastern Lake Ontario to Kingston.

But many others made the journey by sailing ships from New York to Nova Scotia & New Brunswick ~~and Quebec~~. And I suspect that to many it was an unpleasant journey - seasickness, crowding & poorly prepared food.

MRS. CHAMPION SMITH

Odessa. — The funeral of Mrs. Champion Smith was held from the residence of her son, in Kingston, conducted by Rev. Roy Speer, of the Odessa United Church. Mrs. Smith died in the Kingston General Hospital after a short illness.

Deceased was formerly Margaret Jane Sharpe, daughter of the late Andrew Sharpe and Adeline Fretts. She was born in North Fredericksburgh, 93 years ago, and moved with her parents when a small child to Sharpton. After her marriage she took up residence on the homestead just west of the village. For the past three years she has lived with her son in Kingston.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. William Ort (Hettie), of Port Huron, Mich.; three sons, Guy M., of Toronto; Joseph B., of Kingston; A. Bruce, of Odessa; 10 grandchildren 11 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband and one son, Earl, who died in infancy.

Pall-bearers were two grandsons and four grandsons-in-law: Ronald Smith, Clayton Smith, Roy Saunders, Fred Hallett, Herluf Larson, and Norman Todd. Burial was in Cataraqui Cemetery. 8-8-1956

the altar of St. Anthony's Anglican Church, Yarker, for the marriage of Marilyn Ruth Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Freeman, of Yarker, and Ernest George Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Young, Sr., of Colebrook. Rev. Trevor Jones, Toronto, uncle of the groom, performed the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by Canon A. G. Wakelin, of Camden East. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Harold Stover.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was radiant in a lovely floor - length gown having a dainty yoke with scalloped rosepoint pattern of Chantilly lace framing a sweetheart neckline; the bodice and short sleeves were of Chantilly lace. The wide, whirling skirt was highlighted by bands of matching lace appliqued. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a soft bandeau headdress of matching Chantilly lace sprinkled with pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink rosettes and step-anotis.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Raymond Freeman, of Yarker, the bride's sister-in-law; Miss Sandra Young, Colebrook, and the flower girl was the niece of the bride, Miss Ruth Freeman, of Barrie.

The parents of Mrs. Van Luven often spoke of the days when there were no railroads, and in fact, they used to travel to Kingston in a lumber wagon. The Methodist minister who served on the circuit received very little money; in fact many of his parishioners gave him produce in lieu of money.

Many city and district residents will recall that Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Van Luven's mother, officially opened the new highway at Collins Bay to eliminate the two dangerous railroad crossings. The late Anthony Rankin, MLA, member for Frontenac County, was instrumental in having this new road built.

Mrs. Van Luven still takes a keen interest in her church and is a regular contributor to the Collins Bay United Church. In her early life she was an accomplished musician. An accident to her arm about 40 years ago compelled her to give up this interest.

Mrs. John Ferguson is at present living in St. Margaret's Nursing Home, in Montreal. She will celebrate her 102nd. birthday on May 13 of this year. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Grandby, Quebec, visits her grandmother often. Mrs. Ferguson's husband was for many years a minister in the former Methodist Church.

Mrs. W. E. Grass, the younger sister, is living with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Haycock, Napanee. She will celebrate her 88th. birthday next month.

Collins Bay Resident Jan 22 1951 100 Years Old

King, Queen Cable
Mrs. T. F. Van Luven

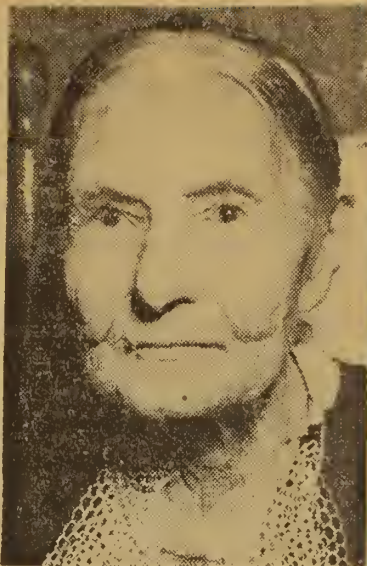

A MESSAGE of congratulations from Their Majesties, King George VI, and Queen Elizabeth, was received by Mrs. Thomas F. Van Luven, Collins Bay, who today celebrates her 100th birthday. An older sister of Mrs. Van Luven, Mrs. John Ferguson, of Montreal, is in her 102nd year, and a younger sister, Mrs. W. E. Grass, Napanee, is 88 years of age. The total ages of the three sisters is 290 years.

Mrs. Van Luven, known to many of the family as "Aunt Lenora," is enjoying good health. She is celebrating her birthday quietly with her daughter, Miss Annie Van Luven, with whom she has lived for many years at their Collins Bay residence. Miss Van Luven is a graduate nurse. With her professional experience she has been able to give her mother first class care.

Mrs. Van Luven is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Darius Smith of Ernestown. Her father was for many years superintendent of light houses on Lake Ontario, and the St. Lawrence River. Her mother, the former Margaret Smith, was born in Ernestown Township on Oct. 18, 1821. She was the oldest daughter of the late Timothy Allen, a local preacher. There was seven boys and two girls in the Allen family. Mrs. Smith, who died July 2, 1924, at Collins Bay, at the age of 102 years, left her Ernestown home at the age of 16 years to study for a school teacher, in the United States. Mrs. Smith taught school for seven years, her first school being on the Fourth Concession, in the Township of Ernestown, and her last school was at Highlands, near Westbrook.

* * *

Mrs. Van Luven recalled that her mother often travelled to school on horseback. School teachers in those early years, according to Mrs. Van Luven, were paid $5 per month for their services. In her first school Mrs. Van Luven's mother had 30 pupils. Parents of the pupils were obliged to board the teacher for a week at a time.

Mrs. Thomas F. Van Luven, Collins Bay, who today celebrates her 100th birthday.

Mrs. John Ferguson, Montreal, an older sister, who will shortly celebrate her 102nd birthday.

Mrs. W. E. Grass, Napanee, youngest sister, who is in her 88th year.

crown itself was safe.

The Tower of London, however, is a lot harder to crack than Westminster Abbey. The precautions against burglary are elaborate, some visible and some highly secret.

Actually there are several crowns of priceless value behind the bars in the ancient tower, and bushels of gems which would be counted a magnificent haul by any master burglar. One conservative estimate places the total value around $60,000,000.

The royal crown itself was stolen once, but that was in 1671, when precautions weren't so scientific as they are now. The thief, the daring Col. Thomas Blood, was caught with St. Edward's crown, the one used in the coronation ceremonial, tucked into a bag just as he was about to mount his horse. He had sawed the royal sceptre in two for more convenient carriage, and had scooped up a rich assortment of jewels.

Blood was remarkably lucky.
Stealing crowns was certainly a hanging offence in those days, but King Charles II was so impressed with Blood's audacity that he gave him a pardon, appointed him to the royal bodyguard and later gave him a pension.

But Blood couldn't do it today.

All Things Considered

A FORMER Kingstonian, William A. Ferguson, 82, walked yesterday into your reporter's news-room

He had a story to tell. In fact, it was a "secret", not unlike and certainly more unusual than some of the secrets uncoiled on Garry Moore's popular TV program.

Mr. Ferguson's "secret" was that he had five relatives who lived to be 100, or older!

With such a story, he was almost as welcome for a chatty hour as paymaster Jim Sutcliffe's brief calls every two weeks.

MR. FERGUSON'S: centenarian relatives include a spinster aunt, Alice DeWita, now a patient at St. Mary's of the Lake Hospital. She celebrated her 103rd birthday on Saturday, March 2. She is the only one of the five centenarians now living.

The other four were:

Mr. Ferguson's mother, wife of the Rev. John Ferguson, a former Methodist clergyman in the Kingston area and in Quebec. The latter was a great-nephew of the Rev. William Losee, first Methodist minister (at Hay Bay Church) to preach in Canada.

His grandmother was Mrs. Margaret Jane Smith (Allen), a descendant of Ethan Allen, of New England fame. She died over 25 years ago at the age of 103.

His great-grandmother, Mrs. Polly Smith, lived past 100. Her daughter, Lenora (Mrs. Thomas Van Luven) who was Mr. Ferguson's aunt, died three years ago, aged 106 years, and 10 months.

IN 1914, William Ferguson began a 32-year employment with the CNR at Saskatoon, all of which time was spent on steam-boiler maintenance in the roundhouse. He retired in 1946. Four of his six children are living.

Looking back over the years, he told me, one of his greatest thrills out of life had been obtained while he was the first, and the only, gospel singer in the Canadian West, during the depression years of the early 1930's.

katoon, operated by the Salvation Army for unmarried mothers. For many years I played the piano, and sang, for them, Saturday evenings.

HIS MOTHER told him, as a boy, that as a wee child, he'd usually stand on a seat in church, and hum the hymns. He soon learned to sing.

He has loved it ever since. Next to this, he enjoys taking part in a play. Once he was first soloist in a production of "San Toy".

A BROTHER, Edgerton, graduated in medicine from Queen's University in 1903, and started practice in Hughenden, Alberta, near Edmonton. He married Hazel Haycock, daughter of famed "Joe" Haycock, leader of the Patrons of Industry, an enthusiastic political party in Ontario, many years ago.

They moved from the West to England in 1928, with their family of three boys and a girl, where Dr. Ferguson practiced in Manchester.

Two of the boys are now physicians in England, and the third, a graduate of Oxford, is a barrister.

For a time, he conducted "Sunday Evening at Home", from Radio Station CFQC, with a vast prairie audience. Those were wonderful years, he said.

As late as three years ago, when he was 79, he composed a hymn and sang it on TV, at CFQC.

IN HIS EARLY years, Mr. Ferguson had a high tenor voice, but it gradually went down to a baritone.

"Still singing?" he was asked.

"Well, not often," he replied. "But in February, I sang at Bethany Hospital, in Sas-

Sucaryl sweetens without calories!

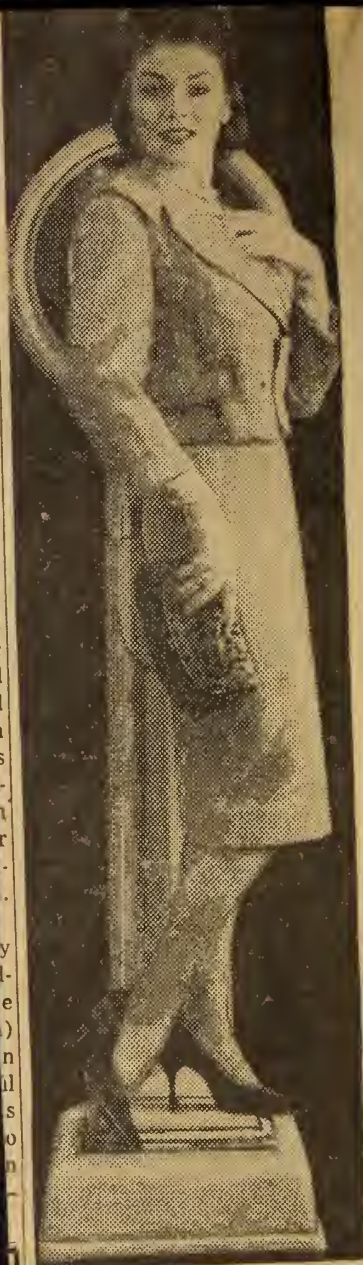

There are no calories in Sucaryl. In tablet, liquid or granulated form, you can use it just about anywhere you would use sugar—in cooking, baking, freezing, canning, as well as in coffee and tea. And never will you miss the missing sugar! Sucaryl is unaffected by heat or cold, has no bitter taste or after-taste.

At all drug stores, in tablet, liquid or granulated form.

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup light cream
evaporated milk
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 lb. Swiss cheese, grate
1/4 lb. Gruyere cheese, grate
ed (see note)
1 tablespoon flour
1 large (Spanish) onion thinly sliced and each slice cut in half crosswise

Beat together eggs, milk, cream or evaporated milk, salt, Tabasco and nutmeg. Combine grated cheeses (see note) and flour; sprinkle evenly in baked pastry shell. Pour in cream mixture. Top with onion slices, arranging them symmetrically on top. Bake in a slow oven of 325 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour or until point of knife inserted in centre comes out clear. Serves 6.

NOTE: For our pie Marg used 1/4 lb. grated old Cheddar, 3 ozs. sharp cream cheese (from the tubular red carton) and 1 oz. grated Parmesan. (from a shaker package)—a because I did not have Swiss and Gruyere and wanted to know if scraps of cheese on hand would work. They did—so use your own judgment.

Beauty

begins with weight watching!

Chic may depend far more on an attractively slender figure than on an ample clothing budget.

Figure control begins with avoiding unnecessary calories, but it doesn't necessarily mean you can't eat cake. With Sucaryl you can keep your weight down and go right on enjoying fully sweetened, natural-tasting foods and beverages!

Mrs. Leonora Van Luven Celebrates 106th Birthday

12-1-1957

Kingston's oldest citizen, Mrs. Leonora Van Luven celebrates her 106th birthday today. Mrs. Van Luven, who was born in the year of Queen Victoria's and Prince Albert's opening to the world of years has seen her countrymen involved in five wars—the Crimea, the Boer War, World War I, World War II and the Korean War.

She has seen Canada raised from a colony of the British Empire to a world power and a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. She was 40 years old when Sir John A. Macdonald opened the Kingston dry-dock.

Because of her extreme age her birthday will be celebrated quietly today with Miss Annie Van Luven, her daughter, who has constantly been with Mrs. Van Luven since 1931, and a small number of the family.

Born in Ernestown Township, Mrs. Van Luven is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Darius Smith. Her mother was the former Margaret Jane Allen who died in 1924 at the age of 102 years.

Mrs. Van Luven moved from Collins Bay to the city in 1952.

Longevity is almost a prerogative of Mrs. Van Luven and her family. Her great grandmother, Polly Smith died at the age of 100, her grandmother, Margaret Jean Smith, lived until she was 102 and her sister, Mrs. John Ferguson lived until 102.

MRS. LENORA VAN LUVEN

Mrs Ann Amelia Ferguson Will Be 96 on Monday

Mrs. Ann Amelia Ferguson

By Fred B. Pense
Staff Reporter

Mrs. Ann Amelia Ferguson, 123 King Street, widow of the late Rev. John Ferguson, a former Methodist minister will celebrate her 96th birthday on Sunday, May 13. A birthday party has been planned for the following day when members of her immediate family, including Mrs. Thomas Van Luven, Collins Bay, a sister, aged 94 years, and Mrs. William Grass, Kingston, also a sister, and Mrs. Ferguson's son, William of Saskatoon, will be in attendance.

Mrs. Ferguson, who is a regular attendant at Sydenham Street United Church, is an active woman for her years. Although her eyesight and hearing have failed somewhat in recent years, she is alert of mind and easily can recall happenings of her childhood.

The late Rev. John Ferguson, who was well known in the Kingston district, died on April 11, 1909, at Lanark. Mrs. Ferguson said she was enjoying good health and was looking forward to the birthday party.

"I come from a family of which all lived to an old age. My mother the late Mrs. Thomas Smith, died at Collins Bay at the age of 102, and my grandmother Smith lived to be 100, so you see there is still hope for me for a few more years," the aged woman remarked.

Mrs. Ferguson attend school at Westbrook and later the Napanee Academy. While in Napanee she resided with her uncle, the late Lewis Allen, who kept a store there. Mrs. Ferguson, who was formerly Ann Amelia Smith, was married on June 17, 1873. "I will never forget that day," she said. "Following the ceremony, which was performed by the late Rev. John H. Ruttan, we started for our first preaching charge at Amherst Island. My husband had been there a year ahead of me. We were there only a short time until we started to build a church. The United Church on Amherst Island today is that

"Although my hearing is failing I certainly enjoy the radio, and like most people I have my pet programs. I followed the events of the war, tried to never miss hearing Winston Churchill, and on V-E Day I enjoyed listening to the message of His Majesty King George. I don't know what I would do if something happened this little radio of mine," she said.

Built Second Church

"Our next appointment was Selby, north of Napanee, and my husband built his second church, but unfortunately this place of worship was destroyed by fire and was later rebuilt. My husband later had a part in building the church at Aultsville. It was at the time of the union of the two Methodist bodies, so it was decided to move one church building up against the other, one of the structures being used as a Sunday school hall.

"In those days," continued Mrs. Ferguson, "the minister and his wife used to stay only three years on a charge and then were moved on. The church was more evangelistic than it is today, and my husband always had an evangelistic message for his people. On our first charges we were paid $600 per year and sometimes we would get gifts from the members of the church."

In Several Charges

Mrs. Ferguson recalled that they had been stationed at Delta, Cobden, Pittsburg, Chesterville, Lanark, Aultsville, Selby, Amherst Island and several other places. She recalled that she enjoyed teaching in the Sunday school and singing in the choir. "I taught music," said she, "before I was married, and after, and I used to play the organ. I loved the work after I was converted and I wanted to do something for God's cause.

"I don't know what I would do without my radio," she remarked.

Pew Specially Equipped
Mrs. Ferguson said she had a lifelong interest in Sydenham Street Church. "If all goes well I will be in my usual pew Sunday morning. You know my pew is equipped with an audi-phone, so I hear the service splendidly."

She paid tribute to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. T. G. Brown, who see to it that she is conveyed to church each Sunday morning in their car.

One of the birthday treats which this grand old lady is looking forward to is the voice of her son, William Ferguson, of the CNR, at Saskatoon, who is expected to sing over the radio to her, through the Kingston station. In addition to her son, William, one son, Dr. Edgerton Ferguson, resides in Manchester, England. Mrs. Edgerton Ferguson is a sister of Mrs. Greta Haycock Webb, of Kingston, who is arranging the birthday party.

Dorothy Dix Declares---

Dear Miss Dix: Won't you please say a word to these young wives who are forever trying to separate their husbands from their mothers? So many wives, mine for instance, are always putting their husbands on the spot by their "me first" demand. Husbands know their wives come first without being constantly reminded of the fact.

It is natural for a man to want his wife to turn out as near like Mom as possible. Who else should he have as his ideal? Shouldn't a wife be glad to have the opportunity to learn from one so near to her husband's heart and one who is so willing to part with her hard-learned information? It all sounds very simple to me. Why, then, does it cause so much friction?

DISGUSTED

Endless Feud

Answer: The never-ending conflict between mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law could be very simply settled if both of them were pin-feathered angels, or if even one of them were a Patient Giselda who was willing to efface herself and let the other monopolize the man they both love. Unfortunately, such is not the case. Both are human beings and, worse still, they are female human beings, monopolistic and possessive by nature, jealous of their prerogatives and determined not to Princess Street United Church was the scene of a pretty early summer wedding at 5.30 o'clock, Friday afternoon, May 11, when the Rev. J. W. Fiddes united in marriage, Ruth Naomi Douglas, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Douglas, and Gerald Edward Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Hunter, all of Napanee. The organist played "O Promise Me" as the bridal party entered the church.

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Henry Douglas, looked lovely in a floor length gown of white triple sheer, with a sweetheart neckline with "bouqueted" flowers, and a finger-tip embroidered veil, caught with white rose buds. She wore the groom's gift, a pearl necklace, and carried a nosegay of red roses, sweet peas and bouvardia.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Manson Kellar of Kingston, wh

Dear Herb:

Many thanks for sending along the 2 copies of "Forgotten Leaves" I read it with a great deal of interest, and it recalled to mind many things about which I did not know or had forgotten.

In case Beulah could not give you a run-down on my early life, I shall pass along a few items.

First: I knew the Boyce boys who lived on a farm about one ^{or miles} concession west of Hartington, where the old road used to make a right turn to Verona - Carl bought a farm near Yarker and was married to Edna McMahon (he came from near Piccadilly). Harold became a doctor and practiced in Deseronto. Russell went farming near Hapence and died some years ago. I knew him better than the others. Silas farmed also, ² but died quite a few years ago.

Our family lived in Harrowsmith in the 1st house on the left side after you crossed the K & P, & B. Q. R. tracks. This street or road leads to the Cemetery, ^{and} on to Colebrook and Yarker. Dad was B. of O. C. road foreman. There were eight in ^{our} family so there was no money for education beyond public school. After Mother had died and Dad remarried, and I had earned enough money, I started B. H. S. four years later than I should have.

Beulah was a member of this class. Grandfather Boyce was born about 1830 - I think in the Wellington area in Prince Edward County. He evidently worked for the Kettlebarre Lumber Co. of Deseronto who had the timber rights on the Happoness River. I think he must have taken a lot in the area of Petworth and there met Grandmother Boyce (we Anna Bradford). Their little plot of 16 acres is on the east side of the ~~road~~

Perhaps enough to send you a bit.
If we ever get around to taking a few days away and come near Bath, I think I shall pay you a short visit. We had a cottage for 25 years on the Baker farm just west of Kingston. Of course the Nylon people helped to end that; but it was a very satisfactory arrangement;
good swimming - fair fishing

when the Lake was not too rough, hardly for attendance at Queen's Summer School, and we could see Mrs Boyce's parents who lived at 231 Alfred St. She was the elder of two girls: Lillean and Christine Diack.

Dr. Boyce who was superintendent of Kingston General was distantly related to us.
How distant I am not certain. There are numerous Boyces in Prince Edward County and in the area of north. There seems to be quite a few in Eastern Ontario. If we have a common origin is within the range of probability: but no one had the time, energy or perhaps desire to keep the family in touch. Remember Boyce's Drug Store.

I have given away the two copies of "Forgotten Leaves" and would like one for my own library. I shall enclose a cheque to cover cost and postage.

I was surprised to know that Prof
Dupuis had lived so close to Harrowsmith.
As a small boy, I recall that about 1903
(when there were only a few cars in the area) he was in Harrowsmith one Sunday with a auto and it was driven with a professor at the rear. They were having some trouble. I can imagine the least They created on those limestone road.

I must stop before you are bored. If you do a little research, ^{re the Boyce family} I would certainly appreciate hearing from you.

Please convey my good wishes to Budak when you see her. Tell her that I saw Elsa Craig from Verona a few weeks ago. The last time I saw her was in March 1916.

Both become senior citizens. To you my thanks and good wishes for time and energy to pursue your hobbies.

Sincerely yours,
Percy Boyce

Dear Dr. Burleigh,

Enclosed is a check for $ 25.00 which you requested for the information on the Smith family. I do hope it will include some proof about the parentage of Robert Baldwin which I want so very much. I have proof for the family back to the first Francis Smith who came here in 1635. I only need the father for R. B. Smith.

Please send the information to me as soon as possible. I am so anxious to see it. I have spent five years on trying to find proof for my man.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) Gloria Domson

I got a copy of D. C. Smith's little story from a son of Cornelius Smith-a Roy Smith from Alabama. Maybe you have a different one.

*Problem!!!
This is the father of R.B. Smith*

Sons of first marriage

9 more children with Thomas Carr

Robert Baldwin came to Michigan in 1854 with his maternal grandparents, Robert and Sarah Smith Diamond. Why didn't he live with his mother?

Mary Ann Diamond married #2 Thomas Carr about 1849. She had 11 children with Darius and Robert Baldwin Smith. A son, Willie Carr, was killed in a saw-mill accident in April 1882 and buried in the church graveyard in Tweed, Ontario. She came to Michigan in 1882
